Homelessness Task Force Report
September 2009

Homelessness is not only a housing problem, but it is always a housing problem.

- J. David Hulchanski,
- Professor and Director,
Centre for Urban and Community Studies, University of Toronto

The homeless population of B.C. - are not an alien species. They are our sons and our daughters, our brothers and our sisters. They are us.

- Dr. David Chudnovsky,
Member of the Legislative Assembly,
Vancouver-Kensington, BC

The homeless are our own refugees.

- Oct. 19, 2008 Times Colonist (Victoria) article, by David Mulroney

Action is required – not more surveys.

1. Executive Summary

In February 2009, Campbell River City Council created a task force to examine the issue of homelessness with the aim of providing recommendations to alleviate the problem. The Task Force consisted of eight individuals representing service providers and members of the community.

Terms of Reference were to:

- Determine the extent of homelessness in Campbell River;
- Review the number of agencies and resources in Campbell River that are currently dealing with the homeless, their current roles, and funding sources;
- Identify future partners in dealing with the homeless;
- Examine the current role/contributions of the Federal Government, Provincial Government, VIHA and the City of Campbell River.

The Task Force was asked to make recommendations regarding:

- The coordination of current service providers and other possible partners;
- The role of the Federal government, Provincial Government, VIHA and City of Campbell River;
- Possible strategies and solutions to resolve the issue of homelessness in Campbell River.

The Task Force began this process by defining homelessness. This includes absolute homelessness, homelessness due to crisis and those persons at risk of homelessness or living in a state of 'hidden homelessness.'

Considerable effort was spent reviewing what had been learned and accomplished in Campbell River and other communities to address homelessness. The Task Force obtained input from the public by way of an individual survey, a survey of service providers and a public meeting. What was learned was supported and consistent with many detailed studies undertaken by other communities.

Survey results indicated that the majority of the city's homeless population have been Campbell River residents for more than five years.

Based on statistics provided by the RCMP, service providers and survey results, the Task Force estimates that the number of people who meet the definition of absolute homelessness in Campbell River is approximately 35 to 50. A much larger group (up to an additional 450 people) meet the broader definition of homelessness.

Of the 388 individuals surveyed by the Task Force:

- Equal number of male and female;
- 43% are between the ages of 40 and 54;
- 66% have lived in Campbell River for five years or more;
- 64% struggle to maintain their housing;
- 33% have visited the emergency room in the last 3 months;

Those attending the Public Meeting emphasized the need for:

- Action – “not more surveys;”
- Coordination of effort to ensure effectiveness;
- 24-hour public facilities that include washrooms, drinking water, laundry, showers and telephones;
- More affordable housing.

In Campbell River and other communities, commonly stated factors contributing to homelessness are:

- Poverty;
- Lack of affordable housing;
- Mental illness and/or addictions;
- Lack of intensive support services;
- Discharge into homelessness from psychiatric, correctional, acute care, addiction treatment facilities and aging out of foster care;
- Social safety net, i.e. Income Assistance, Employment Insurance, Canada Pension Plan and Old Age Security do not provide adequate funds for housing and food;
- Difficulty for some to obtain and retain housing due to lack of tenancy skills.

The Task Force recommends that the City of Campbell River:

1. Base all strategies on the guiding principle of “housing first” including the provision of permanent low-barrier, supportive housing with a focus on harm reduction.
2. Establish a Select Committee to address homelessness in Campbell River.
3. Appoint a person to coordinate the function of the committee and to liaise between the various agencies, all levels of government and the City of Campbell River.
4. Work with all levels of government and community partners to secure or develop affordable long-term housing for an additional 50 people who meet the Task Force’s definition of homelessness for each of the next five consecutive years.
5. Work with community partners to enhance day-time services available for people who are homeless to include showers, laundry, lockers, washrooms and telephone access.
6. Continue to provide land for the development of affordable, supportive housing.
7. Amend the Zoning Bylaw to permit secondary suites, rooming houses and other housing options throughout the City.
8. Amend the City’s Official Community Plan to provide incentives such as density bonusing and taxation options to encourage the development of affordable housing.
9. Establish a reserve fund that would be used to support homelessness initiatives.
10. Encourage all levels of government to work together and partner with non-government organizations to be more effective in addressing homelessness.

2. Background

The Mayor's Task Force on Homelessness in Campbell River

Mayor Cornfield, in his inaugural speech stated his intention to create a Task Force to examine the issue of homelessness in Campbell River. In February 2009, Council approved the Homelessness Task Force's terms of reference and appointed members to the Task Force.

What has the Task Force been asked to do?

The purpose of the Homelessness Task Force was to examine the issue of homelessness in Campbell River with the aim of providing recommendations to alleviate the problem. The terms of reference included a request that the task force:

- Determine the extent of homelessness in Campbell River;
- Review the number of agencies and resources that are currently dealing with the homeless, their current roles, and funding sources;
- Identify future partners in dealing with the homeless;
- Examine the current role/contributions of the Federal Government, Provincial Government, VIHA and the City of Campbell River.

In addition, the task force was asked to make recommendations regarding:

- The coordination of current service providers and other possible partners;
- Possible solutions to the issue of homelessness in Campbell River;
- The role of the Federal government, Provincial Government, VIHA and City of Campbell River in assisting in those possible solutions.

Who is on the Task Force?

- Dale Blackburn, Chair;
- Dick Patterson, Vice-Chair;
- Terry Falk, Board Member, Island J.A.D.E. Vancouver Island;
- Leslie MacLennan, Campbell River Mental Health and Addiction Services (VIHA);
- Tara Goodless-Mason, Supervisor, Campbell River and Port Hardy, Ministry of Housing and Social Development;
- Wendy Tyrer, Director, Evergreen House and Lighthouse Centre;
- Pastor Art Van Holst, Radiant Life Community Church;
- Audrey Wilson, Laichwiltach;
- Cpl. Brian Brown, Campbell River RCMP;
- Councillor Claire Moglove, Council Liaison;
- Peter Wipper, Legislative Services Manager, Staff Liaison;
- Dodie Braithwaite, Support Staff;
- Sylvie Januszewski, Support Staff;
- Sandra Deutch, practicum student, North Island College;
- Shelly Pallen, practicum student, North Island College.

What research has been undertaken by the Campbell River Task Force?

The Task Force attempted to learn as much about homelessness as possible so that its report would be thorough, well-researched and relevant to Campbell River. This was accomplished by a variety of methods including:

- The review of reports and initiatives of other communities and agencies regarding:
 - Definition of homelessness;
 - Extent of homelessness;
 - Successes and failures of various initiatives;
 - Recommended solutions for homelessness.
- Presentations from:
 - Ted Brooks, Chair, Comox Valley Commission to End Homelessness;
 - Greg Hill, Executive Director, BC Association for Community Living (Campbell River);
 - John Horn, Social Planner and Co-Chair, City of Nanaimo's group on Homelessness;
 - Richard Miller, Personal Development Planner, The Salvation Army ;
 - Valerie Puetz, Executive Director, North Island Transition Society;
 - Sian Thomson, Executive Director and Stephanie Kihn, Homeless Outreach Worker, Island J.A.D.E. Society (North Island);
 - Diane Welsh, Program Officer, Campbell River Employment and Labour - Market, Ministry of Housing and Social Development.
- An extensive review of what is currently being done in Campbell River.
- A survey of service recipients (Appendix C).
- A survey of service providers (Appendix D).
- A public open house meeting.
- Attendance at various workshops (Appendix E).

3. Who are the Homeless?

There are many definitions of homelessness which have been developed by various other communities and studies. The Task Force reviewed a wide range of definitions. For the purpose of this Task Force report, homelessness is defined as follows:

Absolute Homelessness

Individuals and families who are living in:

- Public spaces without legal claim (e.g. living in the bush, on the streets, in abandoned buildings, in tents);
- A temporary or emergency shelter;
- A public facility or service (e.g. hospital, care facility, rehabilitation or treatment centre, correctional facility) and cannot return to a stable residence; or

Individuals and families who are:

- Financially, sexually, physically or emotionally exploited to maintain their shelter. (difficult to identify- drug houses, prostitution.)

Homelessness due to crisis

Individuals and families who are:

- Homeless because their previous residence became uninhabitable due to a human caused or natural disaster (e.g. fire, earthquake).

Risk of Homelessness/Hidden Homelessness

Individuals and families who are living in:

- Temporary accommodation where they do not have control over the length and conditions of tenure (e.g. staying in a guest room, name not on lease, couch surfing, two or more individuals who are double bunking in a single room because appropriate housing is not available);
- Time-limited housing designed to help them transition from being homeless to living in a permanent form of housing, e.g. transitional housing or second-stage housing; or
- Accommodation where tenancy will be terminated within three months (e.g. given notice by landlord for a variety of reasons which may include tenant behaviour).

4. What is being done in other Communities?

The Task Force reviewed a variety of studies conducted by other communities including Victoria, Calgary, Portland, Oregon, Comox Valley and Nanaimo. Summaries of the various studies are attached as Appendix A.

In addition, the Task Force invited the Chairs from the Nanaimo and the Comox Valley Homelessness Commissions, to provide a summary of what their communities are doing. From the review of the various studies, it became apparent to the Task Force that there are many recurring themes and recommendations to address homelessness. The most notable are:

- A housing first strategy;
- Housing must be affordable, low-barrier and supportive;
- The need to coordinate community groups and agencies.

5. What is being done in Campbell River?

There are a vast number of organizations in Campbell River who are providing services for those who are homeless. For some agencies this is their primary activity, for others this is a component of a broader mandate. A comprehensive list of these agencies and their contact information is attached as Appendix B.

Some of the agencies which provide services and programs for people who are homeless include:

6. Public Input

In an effort to learn more about homelessness in Campbell River, the Task Force conducted an individual survey, a survey of service providers and held a public meeting.

What did individuals have to say?

The Task Force conducted a survey in May 2009 by interviewing 388 individuals at various agencies in Campbell River including: Radiant Life Church, the Food Bank and the Lighthouse Centre.

The survey attempted to quantify the number of homeless people in Campbell River, identify factors leading to their homelessness and obtain suggestions of possible solutions. The survey/interview questionnaire and a summary of the responses are attached as Appendix C.

Notable results include:

- 37 (10%) identified themselves as absolute homeless;
- 39 (10%) identified themselves as hidden homeless;
- 249 (64%) struggled to maintain their housing;
- 66% have been residents of Campbell River for 5 years or more;
- 12% have been residents of Campbell River for 2 years or less;
- 2.5% have been residents of Campbell River for less than 3 months;
- 43% were between the ages of 40 and 54;
- Equal number of male and female respondents;
- 26% were single;
- 33% had visited the emergency room in the last 3 months.

What did service providers have to say?

The Task Force conducted an on-line survey of service providers. Thirty-two agencies responded. These agencies provide services to people who are homeless or at risk of homelessness on a regular basis. The on-line survey and a summary of responses are attached as Appendix D.

Results of this survey indicate:

- The number of individuals and families struggling with housing issues is increasing;
- Two respondents said their agencies saw 500 or more people who met the definition of “risk of homelessness/hidden homeless” last year;
- Funding to provide services is inadequate;
- There is a lack of safe affordable housing;
- Many of these agencies are actively looking at ways to address homelessness;
- There is interest in participating in a community coalition to address homelessness and to coordinate community efforts and resources.

What did we learn at the Public Meeting?

The Task Force hosted a Public Meeting on May 19, 2009 at the Radiant Life Church in downtown Campbell River. Approximately 75 people attended the meeting including representatives from service agencies, community members and many individuals who have experienced homelessness. The public meeting provided an opportunity to hear ideas regarding the causes of homelessness and possible solutions. Many were eager to express their views. These include:

- A desire for immediate action. “Action is required – not more surveys”;
- Coordination of efforts is imperative in order to be effective;
- 24-hour public facilities including washrooms, drinking water, laundry, showers and telephones;
- A need for more affordable housing;
- A need for low-barrier housing;
- Increased financial support for people on social assistance, as they cannot afford both housing and food;
- Access to more complete health care including dental care, so as to reduce barriers to employment;
- The need for education in tenancy skills.

7. What factors contribute to Homelessness?

After reviewing the profile of homelessness in Campbell River and other communities, the Task Force was able to identify the following contributing factors:

- Poverty;
- Lack of affordable housing;
- Mental illness and/or addictions;
- Lack of intensive support services;
- Discharge into homelessness from psychiatric, correctional, acute care, addiction treatment facilities and aging out of foster care;
- Social safety net (Income Assistance, Employment Insurance, Canada Pension Plan, Old Age Security) does not provide adequate funds for housing and food;
- Lack of adequate tenancy skills;
- Lack of employment opportunities;
- Challenging and difficult requirements in applying for social benefits;
- Reluctance of some landlords to rent to a variety of people (youth, people on income assistance, First Nations, immigrants, single mothers, physically disabled, etc);
- Discrimination related to homelessness;
- Eviction history;
- Criminal history;
- Family breakdown;
- Domestic violence.

8. What can be done to address Homelessness in Campbell River?

The Task Force observed through the public meeting, surveys, speakers, agency reports and ongoing conversations that there are many agencies working in our community in different ways to support people who are homeless. It also became clear that there is a willingness and interest on the part of the many Government and Non-Government Organizations to work together to reduce homelessness. It was noted that an essential element in strategies developed by other communities was improved coordination of all the groups and agencies which provide services to the homeless.

A. Coordination of Service Providers

The City of Campbell River needs to serve a leadership role in the creation of a select committee, which would draw on the community's resources and provide an opportunity to speak with a unified voice when supporting housing initiatives and all other endeavours to address homelessness. This committee would serve to coordinate the efforts of the various community groups who are currently providing services for homeless people or may do so in the future. The committee would work towards ensuring that services are not duplicated and that gaps in services are addressed. The committee would also promote the coordination of support services, so that people can easily navigate the complex system of services that currently exist.

The committee would:

- a) Be inclusive and representative;
- b) Include a member appointed by the City (volunteer, City staff representative or contract position) to provide coordination and liaison between the committee, the various agencies, senior levels of government and the City of Campbell River;
- c) Include representation from all levels of government, including BC Housing and the Vancouver Island Health Authority;
- d) Include input from people who have experienced homelessness;
- e) Implement strategies to deal with homelessness focusing on 'Housing First' strategy;
- f) Set defined timeframes for all recommended courses of action;
- g) Obtain access to web-based data collection technology to be used for identification of client needs, the services available and their utilization. The committee would also use web-based technology for the evaluation of the effectiveness and accountability of the various strategies along with the use of human resources and funding;
- h) Promote and support the provision of multi discipline outreach services;
- i) Development community education programs regarding homelessness;
- j) Provide an annual review of homelessness initiatives, to be published on the City of Campbell River's website.

* Section 142 of the Community Charter states: A council may establish and appoint a select committee to consider or inquire into any matter and to report its findings and opinion to the council. At least one member of a select committee must be a council member.

B. Role of Government Agencies

The City of Campbell River needs to encourage all levels of Government including Federal, Provincial, Regional and First Nations to work together and partner with each other and Non-Government Organizations to more effectively address homelessness issues by:

1. Lobbying the Federal Government (Indian and Northern Affairs Canada, Service Canada, Corrections Canada, Canada Health Act) to:
 - a) Re-establish the National Strategy for Housing;
 - b) Increase the support and housing capacity for people being discharged from federal institutions;
 - c) Implement The Mental Health Commission of Canada's homelessness initiatives;
 - d) Provide funding to alleviate homelessness for aboriginal people.

2. Lobbying the Provincial Government (Ministry of Housing and Social Development - BC Housing, Income Assistance, Housing Matters; Ministry of Attorney General, Ministry of Solicitor General, Ministry of Health, Ministry of Finance) to:
 - a) Secure or develop affordable long-term housing for an additional 50 people who meet the Task Force's definition of homelessness for each of the next five consecutive years;
 - b) Direct the current allocation of Property Purchase Transfer Tax into a community reserve fund;
 - c) Increase the support and housing capacity for people being discharged from correctional and psychiatric facilities;
 - d) Enhance the rental assistance program including funding levels, eligibility criteria, public awareness and timely approval process. (BC Housing);
 - e) Continue support for housing projects presently underway (i.e. Habitat for Humanity, Campbell River Assoc for Community Living and North Island Transition Society);
 - f) Provide equitable funding in rural/remote communities such as Campbell River in concert with larger urban communities;
 - g) Provide urgently needed secondary housing for recovering addicts that is safe and requires accountability on behalf of the occupants;
 - h) Increase financial support to people receiving income assistance (Ministry of Housing & Social Development).

3. Encouraging the Vancouver Island Health Authority (VIHA) to:
 - a) Work in partnership with BC Housing and other stakeholders such as the City and non-profit societies to provide a range of housing resources. This includes supported housing, residential (staffed) housing and emergency housing;
 - b) Ensure that plans for the new Campbell River hospital and the proposed mental health and addiction beds provide housing and supports with assertive community treatment services for those who will be discharged back into the community;
 - c) Ensure that plans for our new Campbell River hospital provide for a sobering and assessment centre and medical detox centre;
 - d) Establish an assertive community treatment (ACT) team (VIHA "reducing homelessness," January 2008 and BC's Mental Health Reform Best Practices for Assertive Community Treatment) to work with people most at risk of homelessness;
 - e) Ensure necessary health and dental services are accessible and available to all in our community, including those who are homeless.

C. Possible Strategies and Solutions

“The only real solution to homelessness is homes.”

- Affordable Housing Calgary, Feb. 2, 2007

The Task Force studied information from a variety of sources and communities and it became apparent that the City of Campbell River needs to support a ‘Housing First’ model. Housing First refers to the principle that the first priority must be to provide homes regardless of an individual’s problems or behaviour. It has been shown that once housed there is an improvement in a person’s circumstances regardless of their initial problems.

Research clearly indicates that the most effective forms of housing for the homeless include the following best practice elements:

- a) Low-barrier criteria – The available housing may have minimal, defined expectations as to abstaining from using drugs and alcohol; however, abstinence is not an absolute requirement to qualify for housing;
- b) Safety – The housing must offer security, promote good health and focus on proven harm reduction behaviors;
- c) Supportive services – These are best provided by a community based multi-disciplinary team which is directed to facilitate a wide range of assistance including:
 - Interpersonal and life skill development;
 - Substance abuse services;
 - Counselling and therapy for mental illness;
 - Tenancy skills;
 - Vocational support.
- d) Client centred – Housing and support services based upon specific resident needs are necessary for those with mental illness or substance abuse. Single-room occupancy with independence and individual participation in decision making should be goals.

The Task Force established that on any given day there are approximately 50 people who are considered absolutely homeless in Campbell River. This estimate likely represents only 10% of those who meet our broader definition of homelessness which includes those people at risk of homelessness and hidden homelessness. These numbers are based on two surveys, a public meeting and information provided by service providers.

Providing housing for these homeless people is the essential foundation for a successful response to homelessness in this community. Several agencies are currently assisting homeless people in Campbell River to obtain housing. Despite these efforts there is insufficient affordable housing to meet the need for the present and the future. Consequently, the Task Force recommends that additional affordable long-term housing be secured or developed for 50 people who meet the Task Force’s definition of homelessness for each of the next five consecutive years.

To accomplish this, the City of Campbell River needs to:

1. Address the needs of homeless people by:
 - a) Working with community partners to enhance day-time services available for people who are homeless to include showers, laundry, lockers, washrooms and telephone access;
 - b) Amending the zoning bylaw to encourage the development of secondary suites and rooming houses;
 - c) Providing incentives for the development of affordable housing such as: density bonusing; cash incentives for secondary suites (Victoria); taxation options;
 - d) Making land available for affordable, supportive, low-barrier housing;
 - e) Lobbying the Provincial Government to enable the development of alternate forms of low-cost housing e.g. housing created from shipping containers.
2. Reach out to the community and develop strong partnerships by:
 - a) Taking a proactive approach, in offering land through a Request for Proposal process, to develop affordable housing options for people who are homeless or at risk of homelessness;
 - b) Public education campaign and community relationship building;
 - c) Continued support for current projects (North Island Transition Society and Association for Community Living);
 - d) Support programs which focus on landlord engagement (market housing) which promote crime free multi-unit housing;
 - e) Promoting the development of tenancy skills training programs.
3. Establish a reserve fund that would be used to support homelessness initiatives. Examples for use of this fund are off-setting developer incentives; tenancy training programs and establishing a day-time center.

Sources of revenue could include:

- a) Donations from the public;
- b) Casino gaming revenue;
- c) Percentage of revenue from licensing of secondary suites or rooming houses, building permits, and housing developments.

9. Summary of Recommendations

The following recommendations represent a summary of “What can be done to address homelessness in Campbell River?” as described in Section 8.

The Homelessness Task Force recommends that Council:

- 1. Adopt “Housing First,” as the guiding principle in all matters relating to homelessness.*
- 2. Establish, by year-end 2009, a Select Committee to address homelessness in Campbell River.*
- 3. Appoint a person to coordinate the function of the committee and to liaise between the various agencies, all levels of government and the City of Campbell River by year-end 2009.*
- 4. Work with all levels of government and community partners to secure or develop affordable long-term housing for an additional 50 people who meet the Task Force’s definition of homelessness for each of the next five consecutive years.*
- 5. Work with community partners to enhance day-time services available for people who are homeless to include showers, laundry, lockers, washrooms and telephone access by Spring 2010.*
- 6. Continue to provide land for the development of affordable, supportive housing.*
- 7. Amend the Zoning Bylaw by the end of 2010 to permit secondary suites, rooming houses and other housing options throughout the City.*
- 8. Amend the City’s Official Community Plan to provide incentives such as density bonusing and taxation options to encourage the development of affordable housing.*
- 9. Establish a reserve fund that would be used to support homelessness initiatives such as providing cash incentives for creation of secondary suites by year-end 2010.*
- 10. Endorse recommendations to alleviate homelessness as outlined in Section 8.B.(1) (2) (3) to be submitted as resolutions to the 2010 annual general meeting of the Association of Vancouver Island Coastal Communities and the Union of B.C. Municipalities.*

10. Conclusion

This Task Force report is about men, women and children in our community who are without safe and secure housing. Many live with mental illness, addictions and/or complex personal circumstances. All struggle with poverty. Homeless people are members of our community. They may be our neighbours or our family members.

Homelessness, lack of affordable housing, and poverty are inexorably linked. This report provides statistics and profiles leading to strategies and proposals with the goal to eliminate homelessness in Campbell River, rather than to merely manage it. The people of Campbell River are creative, energetic and consistently exhibit a long-term commitment of giving to others. These qualities will be the foundation of our success. There are many individuals and agencies currently addressing this need and there is much more to be done.

The cost of inaction for this problem is high. The homeless individual struggles everyday to meet basic needs. Society, by default, is burdened with providing additional healthcare, criminal justice and social services. These costs are estimated to be one-third more for those who are homeless, but are dramatically reduced in those communities which adopt the 'Housing First' approach.

We live in one of the richest countries in the world. There is no reason why all people who seek safe and affordable housing should not be able to obtain it. We have the resources to do it and the moral obligation to make it happen.

Housing Glossary:

Abstinence-Based or Dry Housing: Housing where tenants are not allowed to drink alcohol or use other drugs while in tenancy. Tenants are expected to be "clean" before moving in and actively working on their recovery while living there. Tenants may be discharged from the program if they refuse treatment or relapse.

Assertive Community Treatment (ACT): Is a service-delivery model for providing comprehensive community-based treatment to persons with severe and persistent mental illness and now is the accepted strategy for providing services to homeless persons including those with substance abuse.

Damp Housing: Housing where tenants do not need to be "clean" when entering the program, but are expected to be actively working on recovery from substance use problems.

Dedicated Site: Housing units that are placed in a common building, where all the tenants are part of the program.

Emergency: Short-term shelter for people in crisis. Some emergency shelters also provide meals and support services to the people who stay there.

Group Home: A home that is shared by a number of tenants who are generally expected to participate in shared living arrangements and activities. There is usually 24-hour support staff on site.

Hardest to House: Refers to people with more complex needs and multiple challenges when it comes to housing, such as mental illness(es), addiction(s), other conditions or disabilities, justice-system histories, etc.

Harm Reduction: Harm reduction is a pragmatic response that focuses on keeping people safe and minimizing death, disease and injury associated with higher risk behaviour, while recognizing that the behaviour may continue despite the risks. At the conceptual level, harm reduction maintains a value neutral and humanistic view of drug use and the drug user. It focuses on the harms from drug use rather than on the use itself. It does not insist on or object to abstinence and acknowledges the active role of the drug user in harm reduction programs.

Low Barrier Housing: Housing where a minimum number of expectations are placed on people who wish to live there. The aim is to have as few barriers as possible to allow more people access to services. In housing this often means that tenants are not expected to abstain from using alcohol or other drugs, or from carrying on with street activities while living on-site, so long as they do not engage in these activities in common areas of the house and are respectful of other tenants and staff. Low-barrier facilities follow a harm reduction philosophy.

Non-Profit or Community Housing: Housing that is run by a community organization.

Permanent: Long-term housing with no maximum length of stay.

Private Market: Traditional rental housing that is run by private landlords rather than a housing program.

Public Housing: Housing that is owned by the government.

Scattered Site: Housing units are spread out in apartments in various locations around the city rather than all in one common building. These apartments may be either market or social housing.

Second Stage Housing: Housing that is supported, time-limited and affordable. People may come to second stage housing from a transition house, shelter or a supportive recovery house.

Single Room Occupancy (SRO): Small, one-room apartments that are rented on a monthly or weekly basis. Tenants share common bathrooms and sometimes also share kitchen facilities.

Social Housing: Housing provided by the government (public housing) or a community organization (non-profit housing).

Subsidized: Housing that receives funding from the government or a community organization. Tenants who live in subsidized housing pay rent that is less than market value.

Supported: Affordable housing where the tenants have access to support services in addition to housing. These services vary and can include:

- Life skills training: income management, job training, medication management;
- Medical care;
- Social activities;
- Problem substance use rehabilitation programs;
- Case management.

Transitional: Time-limited, affordable, supported or independent housing. Tenants can usually remain in transitional housing for up to 2 or 3 years.

Wet Housing: Housing where tenants are not expected to abstain from using alcohol and other drugs and where entering rehabilitation program is not a requirement. Tenants have access to recovery services and get to decide if and when they use these services. Wet housing programs follow a harm reduction philosophy.

Calgary

www.endinghomelessness.ca

- Housing first strategy with 10-year action plan including promoting secondary suites, specialized and single-room occupancy housing, utilization of existing surplus school sites and City-owned lands.
- The cost of not dealing with homelessness is substantial. In the province of Alberta it is estimated that the cost of inaction would be $6.65 billion over 10 year period. The strategy is to spend $3.3 billion over the same period for construction and supports to address homelessness.

Comox Valley Commission

www.rdcs.bc.ca/notices.asp?id=3108

- One of the challenges the Comox Valley Commission has had is the number of local governments represented in the Valley - Courtenay, Comox and Cumberland and the Regional District. The City of Courtenay has not been forthcoming with land or any other assistance for the homeless. The Commission has been operating through the Regional District as the City of Courtenay only represents a small portion of the total number of homeless;
- All the Agencies & local government need to be involved in the process. There needs to be 'buy-in' from everyone involved;
- The Comox Valley Commission to End Homelessness has been an advocate for 'zero discharge' which means that people being discharged from correction services or detox centres have to have housing and not be discharged to the street. They provide temporary housing which could be a hotel room;
- 'Dawn to Dawn' is up and running. They rent apartments and then sublet the rooms in the apartments, acting as intermediaries between the tenants and the landlords- to ensure longer term housing for the tenants. Dawn to Dawn also has an outreach van staffed by volunteer nurses and physicians who provide assistance to the homeless. Dawn to Dawn fund raises to help financially support the program.

- Housing First model;
- Harm reduction model;
- Street outreach needed;
- Homeless counts vs surveys (note that a homeless count is not a survey);
- Goal to have five year-ten year time frame for planning;
- Mobilize community/community acceptance;
- Ongoing communication and consultation;
- Accountability;
- Range of housing-disbursement/range of housing (low barrier);
- Support services.

Portland

- Housing first strategy and creation of web-based database to examine more accurate numbers of homeless persons, the frequency of homelessness and the depth and breadth of homelessness, and to help plan more effectively to serve greater numbers of homeless people;
- Move people into housing first;
- Stop discharging people into homelessness;
- Improve outreach to homeless people;
- Emphasize permanent solutions;
- Increase supply of permanent supportive housing;
- Creative innovative new partnerships to end homelessness;
- Make the rent assistance system more effective;
- Increase economic opportunity for homeless people;
- Implement new data collection technology throughout the homeless system.

Victoria

www.victoria.ca/cityhall/tskfrc_brcycl.shtml

Key Findings

- Over 200 organizations engaged and 20 funding agencies spending $76 million annually, plus $62 million on other services – policing, jails, acute care hospital services, emergency room visits, emergency shelters, clean-up;
- 1500 absolute homeless with 45% substance abuse, 30% mental illness, 30% co-occurring.

Evidence Based Practices

- Low barrier housing with supportive care – these must be connected;
- Outreach Community teams are needed immediately to assist the homeless in navigating the complex fragmented web of services;
- Functional integration within, and between, agencies needs to occur at the policy, funding, governance and service delivery levels;
- Studies (in U.S.A) show that 75% of people remain in the community where they become homeless.

Proposed Actions

- “Housing first” – supported housing for homeless must be made available regardless of behaviors and individual problems. Experience shows ‘improvement’ regardless of dysfunctional behaviors;
- Assertive Community Teams – trained proactive outreach teams including partnership among police, VIHA, Housing and Social Development;
- Strategies aimed at public awareness to address discrimination and stigma of homelessness;
- The City needs to identify and provide land for supportive housing. This should also include fast track development planning and approval processes;

- Develop and initiate a shared information system to include data on client needs, service access and provision. This would also allow evaluation as to the effectiveness of strategies, including human resources and funding.

Implemented all 7 policies recommended by “Best Practices by SmartGrowth B.C.” which include:

- Density Bonus;
- Inclusionary Zoning;
- Rent Restrictions;
- Resale Price Restrictions;
- Housing Fund;
- Demolition Policy;
- Secondary Suite Policy.

Campbell River Homelessness Task Force Survey May 2009

The City of Campbell River appointed a task force to look at homelessness in our community and provide a report and recommendations to Council. In order to make useful recommendations we want to know how many people do not have housing and how many people have housing that is not adequate.

Your input is a valuable and essential part of this initiative. Thank you!

This is a confidential survey so please do not sign it. There will be no personal identifying data in the survey summary. You will be given a card with contact information in case you would like to talk with someone from the task force or would like a copy of the survey summary when it is complete.

1. Have you completed this survey before?
 - Yes (If yes, please do not complete another survey)
 - No

2. What is your age? _____ years

3. What gender do you put down when filling out forms?
- Male
 - Female
 - Other

- 34 responses received;
 - 12 of the respondents said their agency/organization serves over 200 people each month;
 - 26 respondents said their agency/organization serves all genders;
 - 4 respondents said their agency/organization received funding specifically to provide services around homelessness;
 - Those receiving funding specific to homelessness indicated the major source of funding is private donations, followed by BC Housing, other provincial funding, foundations, federal funding and municipal funding;

- Services around homelessness provided by the agencies surveyed include a wide range of activities such as: providing social assistance shelter benefits, providing people with a list of apartments to phone and access to a phone, working directly with people to help them find housing, advocating with landlords, liaison between landlords and tenants, providing housing subsidy, providing emergency shelter, providing food and personal care items, referral to other agencies;
- Most of the agencies/organizations who responded to the survey indicated they saw some people who met the taskforce's definition of "absolute homelessness" over the past year. One agency estimated they saw 100 people and two agencies estimated they saw 125 people who met the definition for absolute homelessness;
- Some agencies saw a large number of people (individuals and families) who were homeless due to crisis last year. One agency reported they saw 150 people who met the definition of homelessness due to crisis;
- Twenty-seven respondents said their agencies/organizations worked with people who met the definition for "risk of homelessness/hidden homelessness" last year. One respondent said their agency saw 500 people who met the definition. Another respondent said their agency saw more than 500 people who met the definition;
- A significant increase in the number of people (of all ages) who are homeless was noted;
- Respondents described a number of solutions that Campbell River could work toward as a community. Safe affordable housing was a strong theme;
- 69.6% of respondents said they (or another representative from their agency/organization) would be interested in participating in a community coalition to address homelessness.

What did the Homelessness Task Force learn from this survey?

There are an increasing number of individuals and families struggling with housing issues in our community. People who work in social service agencies/organizations in Campbell River see people who are homeless or at risk of homelessness regularly. Some agencies provide services and support to people who are homeless every day. Specific funding to provide services around homelessness is limited and there is a lack of safe affordable housing available. On the positive side, many of the agencies/organizations surveyed are actively looking at ways to help address homelessness issues. There is interest in participating in a community coalition to address homelessness and the potential for coordinating community efforts and resources.

Appendix E: Workshops

Ann Elmore's Legacy: Preparing for Social Change / May 20th 2009

- On May 20th 2009, the committee hosted a community workshop with the assistance of the Social Planning and Research Council of BC (SPARC BC) to obtain broader input from agencies, groups and individuals to progress towards developing an achievable, effective social plan for Campbell River that has a clear relationship to the "Official Community Plan";
- Outcomes from the workshop include identified priorities under 7 social development areas, one of which is "housing, shelter and homelessness".

Frontline on the Fringe '09 - Housing the Homeless/June 11, 2009

This information workshop was arranged by the Comox Valley Ad Hoc Emergency Resources Organization (AHERO) Event Committee for anyone who works or volunteers with individuals suffering from homelessness or those who are in the process of re-entering mainstream society.

Media presentations of homelessness in Vancouver, housing panel speakers from Comox Valley and Victoria, as well as the local client panel reiterated the following themes:

- A need for decent, low cost housing in areas spread through out the community;
- Challenges homeless individuals often face: addictions, substance abuse, mental health issues, disability, lack of education, no income, involvement with the criminal justice system, lack of life skills, lack of support, and history of childhood neglect and/or abuse;
- Separation from family and mainstream society as well as a lack of life skills frequently occurs;
- Not all homeless individuals are from broken/abusive homes, not all are addicts or have mental illnesses;
- The homeless population is diverse and individuals have different needs;
- Some individuals may not have the capabilities to re-enter mainstream society and their needs still must be considered. Some individuals have never been a part of mainstream society;
- Some individuals do not want to live in areas where drugs and alcohol use occurs, other individuals may require low barrier housing which permits the use of drugs and/or alcohol on the premises;
- Many homeless individuals are ignored in society. These are the most vulnerable of people;
- Fear, shame and pride are reasons some individuals may not access services. It was suggested workers need to show compassion and kindness towards homeless individuals; see the human inside;
- The most important thing is a connection with others. To be there to support changes, to let others know that they can do it and they are worth it;
- The most important things all people need are a sense of belonging, to love and be loved, and the opportunity to contribute.

They also shared about common barriers which included:

- Lack of food/nutritional food;
- Difficulty accessing services;
- Poor health, addictions, mental illness;
- Lack of family physician;
- lack of life skills;
- Lack of references & credit checks;
- Subsidies are complicated;
- Stigma;
- Lack of income/inadequate income.

UVIC-Community Housing and Homelessness Research and Strategy Workshop: March 25th 2009

- Dr. David Hulchanski (Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto) talked about the (relatively short) history of homelessness in Canada. Also talked about Canada having the knowledge and resources to make homelessness disappear through broad based research and multi-sector policy solutions on three causes of homelessness: inadequate housing, inadequate income and inadequate support services;
- UVic Office of Community Based Research is moving to create housing and homelessness strategies;
- Possibility for community/university partnerships and venues for information/resource sharing;

Skaeve Huse

Skaeve Huse is actually an expression from Denmark which means something like special houses for special people. As in every city, Amsterdam has to deal with people who can not rent a 'normal' house in a 'normal' neighborhood, either because they lack the means to pay rent in time or they cause trouble with their different views of life. For these people, in most cases with a psychiatric history, Denmark started project to house them outside the city borders where they could do no harm but could be housed properly. In Holland this initiative was adopted and the project you see below is located in the harbor area in Amsterdam as an experiment for 6 houses which turned out to be a successful approach. More of these projects are expected in Holland.

Low Cost Housing Solutions

Tempohousing has 7 base models, shown below. What they have in common is:

- The ducts and pipes for ventilation, sewage, water and heating (cooling) and the wiring for power and data all come together in a central service shaft in the middle of the unit, next to the bathroom
- Overall internal insulation (heat / cold, noise, fire resistance)
- Large windows for sufficient daylight (and view)
- Heavy steel construction for high stacking
- A single unit (2,4 m wide) or a combination of 2 units (4,8 m wide)
- CSC plated, meaning they are accepted as standard freight on a container vessel world wide.

If you choose for a Tempohousing product , what you get is an ISO universal system of 8 ft (2,4 m.) wide units that have - because of these sizes - always a second life if you wish: you can reuse or resell them to other countries in the world. Reselling won't be a concern: the need for housing is a worldwide problem that is not solved in the near future. But this great advantage also means a basis of 8 ft wide unit: they do not get wider. Standard 8 ft wide (2,4 m.) and 40 ft long (12 m.) sizes are our business. Of course you can combine 2 of them (maybe 3) and then you have a nice area of 60 square meters or 640 square feet. For large projects, we can also use 12 ft (3,6 m.) units but they cost a lot more and are difficult to transport. A brochure with all these models is available.

Like it or not - Shipping Container Homes are coming to a lot near you!

Any drive along the coast of America will reveal that in port cities and areas around inland freight transit terminals, there are literally hundreds of thousands of empty containers are piling up. The stacks start to resemble alien landscapes, with the ISBU's often piled several containers high, to loom over the landscape like forgotten Sci-Fi movie sets. In most of these repositories, there are commercial and residential neighborhoods living in the shadows these monsters cast, where the sun sometimes sets an hour earlier than in all the adjacent surrounding areas.

Along every rail line you can see them riding along, usually stacked two high on flatbed railroad cars, in caravans stretching for miles, or hauled along on flat-bed trailers behind tractors on our interstate highways. We see them so frequently that they've become a popular icon for stock film footage on the news channels, and their images are used for everything including illustrating every story about port security ever broadcast.

If you've been following along, you already know that ISBUs are manufactured of heavy-gauge Corten steel and are water-proof, fire resistant, impervious to bugs and built to hold cargo securely on the pitching deck of a ship. They're designed to be rugged, resilient, durable, and impervious to most damage.

So, it isn't hard to imagine that one day, while stuck at a railroad crossing, an architect staring at an impressive column of containers rolling by, suddenly saw the light-bulb flash on.

CONTAINER LOW COST HOUSING

One container can form the basis for a low cost home (albeit compact) or perhaps emergency temporary housing following an earthquake or hurricane. And several containers can be combined as building blocks to create larger and more permanent structures. For example, five 40 foot units placed side by side with the side walls of the inner containers removed provides an open space 40' x 40' - 1,600 sq. ft of living area. And remember that containers are manufactured to be stacked as many as nine high without compromising their structural integrity so adding a second or third story isn't a problem.

The possibilities are endless. Because they are just boxes, they lend themselves to many different possibilities; college dorms, artist loft space, shopping areas, Community Centers, jails, industrial parks, and more housing configurations than you could shake a welding rod at! You can line ISBU's up, add on decks, cantilever them, add canopies, and achieve a finished design that can resemble anything you want; be it modern, traditional, or whimsical.

And, as much as we like to take credit for everything including sliced bread and spaghetti, Container housing is not an American innovation. Containers have been used in Europe, New Zealand, and many third-world countries for years. There are actually real places where people are far ahead of us in the number of completed projects and in innovative technology.
